

Muscogee (Creek) Nation

National Day of Prayer

April 2, 2022

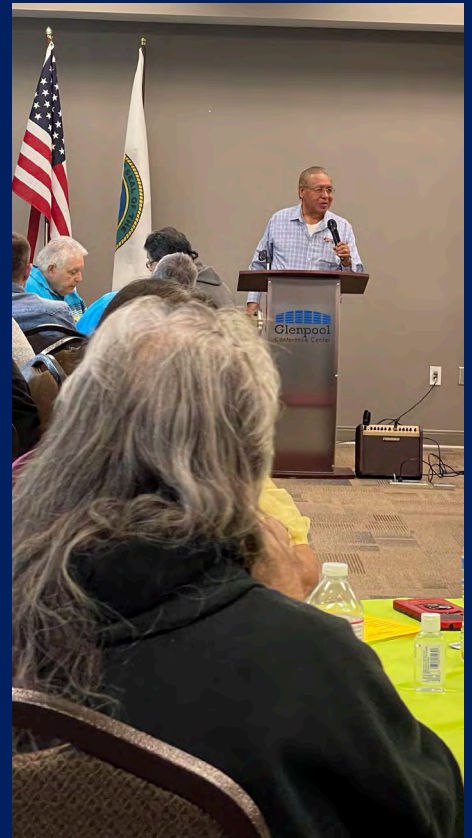

The Muscogee (Creek) Nation has a history of honoring and observing the annual National Day of Prayer in the United States. Several Principal Chiefs, dating back to the Perry Beaver administration, have issued proclamations recognizing the date. Principal Chief David Hill proclaimed April 2, 2022 as the tribe's recognition of this year's National Day of Prayer.

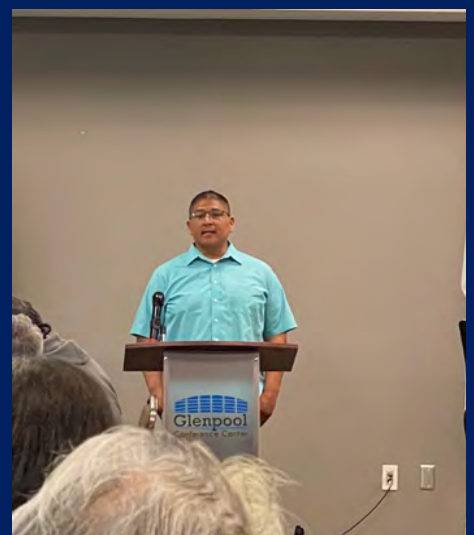

Numerous ministers and Mvskoke church leaders met in Glenpool, at the Conference Center, to participate in an observance. A program was coordinated by Reverend Al Pulver, and his wife Betty, from Sapulpa's Covenant Harvest Ministries Prayer Group.

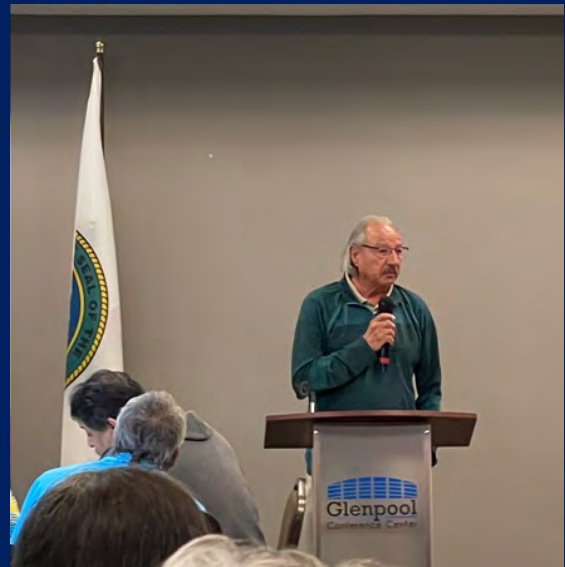

MC National Council Representative Mark Randolph, Wagoner District, read the proclamation on behalf of Principal Chief Hill, and led a prayer for Unity, Sovereignty, and a return to basic values, morals and beliefs of the Mvskoke people.

Saturday in April, Muscogee Creek Day of Prayer

We have been misunderstood by the dominant culture and even by our own people. I do not seek to tell you how to worship, but I am requesting that we all meet in one accord to make it known to our respective beliefs that we have not been obedient to our God and that we as a Nation need to gather as one in making confession that we have walked contrary to our God, that our fathers have walked contrary to God. Our father's fathers have walked contrary to us.

Leviticus 26:40
