Robert was born into his purpose as Mekko of Alabama Quassarte Cuko Rakko, and at a very young age he stepped into his job. He often spoke about the elders who raised him and taught him what he needed to know. He enjoyed being outside, fishing, taking drives, going stompdance, visiting Mvskoke Churches, working in the yard, and "cleaning" his shed. He loved his grandchildren and thought the world of everything they did. He loved being with family and friends and drinking coffee while visiting. He was a member of Ryal Community Baptist Church, where he loved singing and listening to Mvskoke hymns. He was elected second chief of Alabama Quassarte Tribal Town and loved helping his people any way he could. Robert had so much love for his ground and members. He explained his love for his people as this: A mother loves her child, see's her child as perfect and could do no wrong. No matter what anyone says or thinks, that child is the most beautiful thing in her eyes. My members and people I am responsible for our my children. They are not perfect but nothing they do could make me love them any less.
